There are 3.5 miles of beautiful coastline and a State Marine Life Refuge that are open to the public at Crystal Cove State Park.

If you enjoy exploring tidepools or think that you might find it a fun experience, please join us at our upcoming training for volunteers and docents.

On Monday, October 27, 2008 at 6:30 PM we will be conducting a two hour training program for new guides and monitors in the Marine Life refuge. The program will be conducted at the Ocean Institute in Dana Point.

You will learn the following:

* Basic Marine Life Refuge rules
* Identification of intertidal organisms
* How to guide visitors on a walk
* How to approach and interact with visitors in a friendly manner
* How to provide information about the protection and preservation of this sensitive and valuable natural resource

Please contact Winter Bonnin at 949.497.7647 or wbonnin@parks.ca.gov for reservations or more information